

THE WORLD OF ZOMBIES

Humans aren't the only issue in this world zombies are...

JAMES

Two enemies will meet once again for their final battle with an unexpected turn of events. You will find out how the zombie apocalypse really started.

Chapter One the science to leave the science lab.

When death itself is fear lost, and burning is now normal, normal is now lost.

A group of five men aged 45, but instead of acting like age 45, they were acting like they were 12. They thought it would be funny if they went into a science building. As they were walking, they noticed another group of five, one woman and four men. The back door to the science building was wide open. They checked to see if someone was in the room, but no one could be seen. All they could see was the equipment, three test tubes ready to be used.

The five men went into the science room, as they hid under a desk three mysterious figures walked quietly into the room. "Ok almost done we just need to pour it into glasses and get people to witness, 60 people should be enough," a woman says. They all pour the contents of the tube into a glass and steer it around "ok everything is set, now we need people to watch" they all say at the same time, and then leave the room. The five men get back out of their hiding spot unsure of what they had just witnessed.

They pour different chemicals into the glass, mixing them up to turn them green, and they then hid back under a desk. 63 people walk into the room. 60 of them are eyewitnesses. The 3 women take the drinks from the desk. The 63 hear a woman yell "HELP". The three women start to drink. They all place the glass down on the desk and the next thing that happens is they all drop to the floor dead. The others have no idea what happened. They are in shock.

3 other people check if they are still alive. They put their ears up to try and listen to their heartbeat. The dead people on the floor opened their eyes quickly. They did not have normal eyes but had dark black eyes with also red blood. They bite hard onto the people checking on the dead bodies, ripping their skin. The people scream.

The men, or should I say boys for the way they were behaving, whispered "zombies". The zombies stand up and a man picks up the remainder of the drinks and throws them outside. The green stuff fogs up and rises into the sky. As it hits the sky it starts to rain all over the world.

“Run” a man yelled. The one who threw the glass then got bitten by the ear. Then the zombies start running. The ones that were bitten run out of the science building.

The zombies are turning quickly. They follow the running people as they try for the exit. Someone uses a key to open the door. More people are getting bitten by zombies. People run in different directions. Now zombies bite the people who were trying to escape by unlocking the exit door. More zombies come in and bite more people. Then people got into other science rooms. Someone ran towards the large staff room but got bitten.

The zombies were applying like mad people in the staff room to see what is going on. They all hid under tables, all 80 of them. More biting is happening, and it seems like some people made it inside safe rooms and found a nice place to hide. A woman in a room alone tries leaving her room, trying to make a run for it, but she was bitten just before she got to the door. Some people went down to this restricted room. Someone had access to it but when she swiped her card it was too late. They all got bitten.

The men see more zombies come into the science building in another room. "What could have possibly gone wrong" a man whispered to himself. "I saw you run to this room" a woman whispered in the room next door. A phone went off and the zombies broke in, killing everyone inside with about 57 people that were inside. That room now turned into zombies. The person who got the phone call was answering it at first then zombies heard it and broke the glass. The man hung up the phone while noticing the zombies breaking the glass. A woman yelled, "you killed us all".

Some time has gone past, and now the zombies have about 370 in the science building, and as for people about 470, all in hiding somewhere in this large science building. Some people are running to the control room. About 38 tried to get in successfully. Only 6 people made it and they press the emergency drop button. People inside the rooms all drop when the ground opens. All but the 5 men drop into the ocean.

They start to swim to land but the drop went on forever. They took 40 minutes to get to the other side of the massive tubes, and swimming to shore wasn't too far. It was a 2-minute swim when they called the police. Only one cop answered the phone from a woman called Barbra. "Yes, I know zombies are taking over the whole world - the whole world is done for" the cop yelled. Some of the people over-heard what was said "so how did the world let the virus get around?" I thought. It was only in our science building" Barbra stated. "All we know is it was raining and people who got wet from the rain, died and turned back into a zombie and started biting people". Three of the police are left in the city, and the rest are all dead. Some run and some walk that's all. "I know I'm sorry we aren't coming to save you; you are on your own. I don't want to risk my own life" she shouts.

Barbra yelled back "PLEASE", and the man hung up the phone. The group decided to camp out for the night with nothing but their work clothes. They made campfires.

They walk not far to find a place to sleep out for the night. Later the next day all the lights in the city went out. A rescue helicopter collides with a large skyscraper. A plane crashed into a large tree and another plane crashed into a graveyard while only a few made it out alive. "What do we do now?" they all ask at different times.

Chapter two

Zombies have already started to bite, and 7 people have turned into zombies.

“It’s the end of the world - they are zombies” Violet screamed. “How do you not know this by now? Was it not on the news? Did you not leave the house? Perhaps if you have people who live here who went to leave the house” asked Barbra. “I had no idea, heard nothing, saw nothing, I must tell my kids and wife” he runs upstairs and wakes them up. They all come downstairs wondering what is this all about.

The kids are teenage girls and one adult kid. The mum, and the 3 girls were shocked to see 395 people in the house. "Bob what are all of these people doing in our house? Is everything all right Bob?" said the woman "Look out the window". The girls look out the window and saw the zombies. "We need weapons to fight back the zombies," Bob said. "Where is the nearest weapon shop to back up the mum and the girls?". The zombies keep banging "Everyone - back door go!" the mum unlocks it and then opens the door. She heads out first and they follow behind her. She gets bitten, and then a man gets bitten. They go back inside and the girls were yelling "Mum no". Bob starts crying and the dad closed it and locked it "we're trapped" he whispers while crying.

The girls started crying and they all had no idea what to do. "We've got 4 cars in our garage, and we can take turns. One car has 9 seats, one car has 5 seats, and a truck can fit 14, another car can fit 7, that's 35 people at a time in a car or a truck". Then Bob takes out another pair of keys, "We have a spare truck but it is outside and can also hold 14 people, 47 people at a time". They get the keys from their bedrooms. To get their keys people started to go down with Bob. He unlocks the door and swings the door open.

Then zombies run and bite a couple more people. The others Violet decides to first run forward, pushing the zombie out of the way. Then people follow her running. She closed the garage door. More bites occurred and Bob closed the door, noticing how full it was. The zombies that got in the house were running after them. 10 more people got bitten. Someone hid under a car. The garage door is now closed with 7 zombies in with no way out. "Kill the zombies," people yelled. Bob grabs one slamming it and throws it to the ground smashing its head and killing it. Then other people stopped running but started killing the zombies. The zombies in the garage are all killed, but in the rest of the house the zombies are still biting, and the others are still finding places.

It has been 20 turns in total since Bob opened the back door to the garage. Including the person who was hiding under a car and 2 people in the kitchen who were bitten by zombies, there are now 23 dead. The rest made it into other parts of the house safely, and 80 made it into the garage. "What happens now if we leave the others behind and just let them die?" Barbra questioned everyone. "I say we vote on it and only fear who wants to save them". Everyone puts their hand up and so do I.

I just wanted to see them head back up, all 80 of them, killing the zombies and freeing the other survivors. A few people got bitten in the process so people now take it in turns, allowing 47 people in at a time. Everyone was ok to wait their turn. The first 47 found a bus with keys that could fit 60 people. The bus went back to pick up 60 more people and then one more pick up from the vehicles. Then too many zombies got in and the others were either trying to fight or running from the zombies. 66 got bitten and the rest made it out alive. Some went into a room of the house and ran into a forest. It only needed one more trip.

They arrived at a little town. Some people have their hands on a weapon. Bob, Violet and Barbra have a weapon and they make their own homes peaceful for a while. 3 months later Violet decides "Come on guys we have to leave. Look more zombies are coming" Violet, Barbra and Bob shoot zombies down. Bob then spots his wife with a slight shake of his head and then shoots. They all start to run away. The bus had a boom on it placed by the original owner. One of the daughters presses the detonation killing lots of zombies, and they continue running.

Chapter Three - Just a normal day in the normal zombie apocalypse

4 months later

10 running zombies came out of the bush. Darren kills a zombie, stabbing it in the eye. Another zombie runs at Darren and the zombie gets stabbed. Holly shoots an arrow at a zombie, then some zombies run to Holly. She stabs a zombie running at her, then shoots a zombie running at her. Tegan kills a zombie that was running at her, and then Barbra shoots the rest of the zombies with a gun. They walk into a town.

The gates open and they have 500 people in the town. "Come on in," a woman said. "Bad news - I am sorry Bob got bitten, he is in his room". They rush to the room he was in. Barbra hugs him first. Other people are also in the room. The bite mark was on his right knee. "I'm so sorry my friend" Darren spoke with a whimper. "I mean you are my best friend and have been since we were four years old many years ago” he spoke while crying. “It’s ok I lived the best life I could, and I wanted you to know that I know where they live”.

The whole group pack their backpacks with food and weapons. With weapons in their hands ready to be used, walking zombies are coming as they were always coming. Barbra and the other people just didn’t know it, but until now there are 60 walking zombies. They were killed with no problem and as they walk forward, they walk on a road. They are walking forward on the road as the zombies finally made it to the city’s bridge.

Barbra knocks on the door and the large gates open. The first person they noticed was Mitch. In the crowd he spots them easily, “Oh hello”, they have their weapons pointing at him. They notice he has a massive smile on his face “The people work for me and 11 thousand people live here, about 1 thousand are elsewhere at the moment” Mitch spoke in sarcasm. “Ok I guess we can just go back to our other home, and we will never have to see each other again” replied Barbra. They turn around and then Mitch takes out a bow and arrow and shoots one into the back of Volda. She coughs up blood “Get revenge” she demanded as they turned around facing him.

“No leaving – this is where we will kill every single one of you” Mitch spoke as they walked inside the gates. Mitch pulls his arrow out of the woman’s body “Try anything and you’re dead” quickly spoke Mitch. “Later some of my people will take you to your new homes and I will tell you how things work around here" Mitch explained.

Later that day Mitch knocks on the door then walks in "Now I don't have a lot of rules, I just have a few you must follow. Rule number one, no yelling, unless it is me, No fighting back or talking about fighting back, no lying to anyone, no hiding anything from us or me, no leaving, and most of all no weapons. If we or I catch you with any rule-breaking we will kill you straight away, in front of everyone. The only time you can use a weapon is with zombies". Then Mitch walked away to tell the others the same thing. Zombie Volda is banging on the large gates, and then before dark, one thousand people come to the door. A man kills zombie Volda, and the gates open so they go back inside the city.

Chapter Four - talking back turns into fighting back.

10 weeks later

There was lightning in the sky, and everyone was just enjoying nice food with conversations. Tegan grabs Barbra and pulls her back. Mitch spots it, and Barbra secretly says “kill her in front of everyone”. Mitch said “to a man the man leaves”, he goes down a lift it goes down slowly. Mitch remains watch over things. “I don’t want you to get hurt” Barbra responds furiously to Tegan.

A man taps her on the shoulder “we are on your side, me and my wife” the man said. “We came here for help then he started killing our people. We surrendered and we don’t know who else is actually on our side or who else is not really on Mitch’s team” spoke the wife. “Where is the rest of your group, the ones still alive?”

asked Tegan. “Only those 9 people over there” pointed the man to the people in the distance. Mitch goes down as well.

“Another kill for me to do” Mitch thinks in his head. Tegan gets grabbed by a man pulling her away. The man takes out a gun. They now have to act like nothing is going on.

Tegan shakes her head “Does anyone really want to work for this man, I mean really?” yelled Tegan. People look at Tegan but of course, the whole city could not hear her. “One day Mitch will die so go on kill me!” spoke Tegan. Before she could finish what she was going to say the man shoots her in the head and she falls to the right side. Dead Barbra watches yet another person of hers die before her eyes. “You are a horrible human being, I don’t care any more, and even if you kill everyone, I will kill you” shouted Barbra. A Smirk appears on his face he takes out his gun and points it at Barbra.

She quickly grabs a gun and stands up. She steps back “Are you sure you want to try it” said Mitch. Bob yells “Come on there must be others against him, not just us” With a pause he goes on “Take a stand and show yourself. Now is the time, don’t be scared,” shouted Darren. People started to stand. People from all over the city stood up. 5,600 people stood up. The message went around then all of Barbra’s people stood up last.

Mitch thinks to himself "I did not think that this day would ever happen". The ones that were sitting are loyal to Mitch. "Stand up" shouted Mitch. The others stood up, then Mitch runs away. Barbra shoots the man who killed Tegan. Mitch runs into the building and the fight begins as the tension builds.

The shooting has started all over the city. Most of them have weapons. Barbra runs after Mitch as he enters the lift. The door closes and she shoots at people getting in the way. She aims at him with her gun. The lift door closes as she runs and presses the lift button. He thinks and acts quickly, but he waits in the lift for it to go up. It opens as he runs out of the lift.

He turns around ready to fight "Wait" Darren commands. "I want to fight him as well and you might need my help as we go up together" explained Darren. The doors open and they get into the lift at the same time. Barbra presses the button "We need to act fast to beat him or he will be up there ready to fire and maybe one of us will die" said Barbra as the doors opened later.

Darren and Barbra shoot, but he was not there at the entrance as they exit the lift. He grabs Barbra "Surprise, I win again. I was not prepared for that attack and I probably would have died but I was fully prepared for that now".

“Could I not?” said Mitch “hey Mitch” Barbra spoke. There was a pause and Darren ended it by saying “she doesn’t care anymore as long as you are dead, and I can still shoot your feet”. He quickly shoots his foot and then in the stomach. He falls back to the ground bleeding. “I know you’re going to turn so we are going to let you turn” Barbra steps forward. “We should finish him for good here” shouted Barbra. She points a gun at his head “go on I am dying anyway” said Mitch. They leave and he falls back and dies “We’re leaving now or they would all turn” spoke Barbra.

The fight is still going, and people are wanting to exit. A man unlocks the gates and opens it. Washington DC is a lost city now the zombies are coming. People run out of the city as Tina shoots her gun at a zombie. People see zombies on the bridge “What do we do now” asked Aril. A group of zombies is coming to jump off into the water and swim.

The man and his wife run and jump into the water first. Barbara holds Darren’s hand as they run and jump in. Other people follow and jump into the water as they all swim. 250 people are now with Barbra swimming in the water. More people notice the exit was opened but only 10 people more exit. The rest are dead, or a zombie. or still fighting. Back to where Mitch was, he gets back up walks forward “Look at that. the zombie virus doesn't fully work on me" Mitch said as he walks over to the lift and presses the button "I win he said.

Chapter Five - White light

4 months later

Barba's group of about 260 has now all gone into a shopping mall and they wiped out all the zombies inside within one hour. Little did they know zombies were emerging to the mall, 1000 give or take 500, lined up on each side of the shopping mall. They are outnumbered by the zombies 260 to 1000.

Mitch and the remainder of his people are also coming. People notice that a lot of the shops weren't destroyed and they all feel as if the zombie apocalypse is over or it was never even happening, or it was only just a bad dream. So people were trying new clothes, reading books, and all sorts of stuff and just having a really good time, pretending to shop as if things were back to normal. They were all feeling it too. They haven't felt that way in ages. Then an hour went past and the zombies arrived to the mall banging on the back entrance and the front entrance.

People stop pretending as kids again. No more joy. They split in half. One-half went to the front entrance. The other half went to the back. They notice 500 zombies on each side. Barbra notices Mitch banging on the door. "Mitch is back as a zombie" she yelled at everyone. Word came around "we can't possibly do this" spoke Tina with fear. "One final stand" Barbra yelled. Then there was a quiet pause.

"We stand together or die together, for all of us who have lost someone" yelled Barbra. Then Mitch looks directly at Barbra then smiles at her she is in shock. She lifts up an axe and whacks the glass as it smashes. Then on the other side the zombies break in. Zombies come in and no one is running. Gun shootings are everywhere. Mitch walks in.

He throws an axe at Barbra. She ducks it as he runs at Barbra, grabbing her by the throat, and choking her. Tina notices him, but is too busy shooting zombies. Barbra kicks him as hard as she could between the legs, then kicked him again, then once again. The others start running from zombies, getting inside shops, and locking themselves in. Then Tina kills a friend of Mitch with her gun and runs to a safe place. It was just Barbra and Mitch, and the other zombies are too distracted “You killed too many of my people” Barbra whispered. Another kick “you are a bad boy” whispered Barbra. Another kick and then she grabbed his head “And now I’m going to shoot you in the head” she yelled.

He tries to get out of it and she shoots him between the legs. There was a moment’s pause, and she loved this moment. She brings the gun to his head and shoots. The bullet perfectly kills Mitch. She throws his head to the ground, and she feels free.

A bright light shines around the whole place. 700 zombies, 212 humans, she picks up his axe and slices off his head just for good measure. The others get out of the emergency exit. The 212 of them leave the shopping mall and a red light appeared around outside. The white light then appeared and they realised the light was shining brightly. The red light brightened even more. Barbra noticed the red light followed the white light. The white light went all over them showing them how the zombie apocalypse started. Then the light spoke "Go back to the science lab to where it all began and work on the cure. All turned zombies would be cured and life would go back to normal. First, kill the zombies in the science building. The putdown zombies will stay dead the dead humans would stay dead. Sorry but that's all I can do to help and if you fail the zombie apocalypse would continue as the white light fades away and the red light is gone.

You can guess the ending.

Zombies lose!

Author notes

I hope you enjoy reading my book as I have been enjoying writing it. I gave it my all after I had a writing break for a term I was able to fix it now that it is fixed I love it. This is my second zombie story. I was born in 1995 8th of June. I live in Brisbane and lived there my whole life I love my music, reading books, watching movies and TV shows and I love traveling and video games.
